

Lyndsay Lambert Bio

Lyndsay Lambert, a graduate of Texas Tech University, homeschooled her four now-grown children for sixteen years. She has assisted Tim, her husband of over thirty years, in serving the home school community, first in helping to start and lead their local support group and since 1990, in running the Texas Home School Coalition, the state-wide organization committed to serving Texas home schoolers. As director of special projects, Lyndsay oversees THSC special events, is the editor of the Texas Home School Coalition Review magazine, and coordinates the publications of THSC. Her strongest desire, however, is to encourage home school moms and support group leaders in the important work that they are doing.